Therese, Deb,

I just received this from Kevon Martis, thought the letter from the lady in McBain would be a great reminder to both boards as to why we must keep fighting. Please forward this to the other board members and enter a copy into the official minutes.

Thanks,

Ken Wieber

Good Morning IICC Supporters!

The letter below appeared in the Cadillac News this week.

As you know, wind leaseholders take a risk when speaking out about the ill effects of wind development due to “gag clauses” in the lease language.

I applaud the courage of this lady for speaking truth.

There are those who would say “I would rather a wind plant than a nuclear power plant in my back yard!”

But the truth is that nuclear power plants only harm people when they malfunction.

Wind plants harm people when they are operating normally.

And another question arises: what is the right percentage mandate for devices that continue to cause this harm to Michigan’s rural residents?

Bottom line: MI has spent $2.5 billion on wind + transmission to have reduced coal emissions by a few percent at best.

That same money spent on clean burning gas-fired generation could have cut our PM2.5 and Hg emissions by HALF while reducing CO2 emissions by 25%.

What kind of environmental return is that?

BTW: Heritage is busily attempting to build more wind projects in the state with similar setbacks to those in McBain, despite a demonstrable track record of failing to protect our rural residents.

It is an injustice to use zoning policy to award private property to industrial wind developers for use as nuisance and safety buffers with neither consent nor compensation.

Sincerely,

Kevon Martis
Director

“I signed a wind turbine lease in 2008. If I had known then what I know now, I wouldn’t have signed.

Since the turbines went up I have had frequent headaches lasting three days. I never had these before. My mother has ringing in her ears and headaches. I have spoken to others in the community who have been affected by the turbines. One has dizzy spells. Another does not feel healthy until she leaves McBain. They are now planning on moving, but have been told by realtors that they will have trouble selling their home because of the turbines.

Because it takes so long for the entire wind farm to become operational, the signs of how the turbines worsen health and quality of life take a long time to be noticed. One person I talked with thought her dizziness was “just getting older,” but this person is young.

Why hasn’t anyone spoken out before? People are afraid of being shunned. They don’t want anyone to know they are having problems.

Is money more important than health? Is this what we gave away for $10,000 a turbine and monthly payments, with leases that will never end? We gave up our beautiful community, we are giving up our health, our electric bills have risen, and there doesn’t seem to be anyway out except leaving.

The wind companies have talked to people in McBain and I believe they know there are problems with noise and with health. Why don’t they take action? Why didn’t they tell us about the health problems before we signed leases?

I now believe that the only safe place for turbines is at least a mile and a half from anyone’s home.”
